WEST INDIES.

Capture of Las Tunas.

HAVANA, Oct. 5, via KEY WEST, Oct. 6—The following are additional particulars of the capture of Las Tunas, by the insurgents, under Vicente Garcia. During the night of September 22d about 500 insurgents, headed by Vicente Garcia, attacked Las Tunas on three sides Portions of Spanish troops at the place were surprised and made prisoners near the fort The remainder were disarmed by the governor in various houses while some citizens and two unteers fortified themselves in the court house. During the confusion attending the attack the governor was assisted by his own soldiers Upon capturing the fort the insurgents turned its guns on the court house, disabling 54 men after which they took possession of the city. Vicente Garcia then sent a message to the Spanish governor in Holguin, notifying him that he had 240 Spanish prisoners and his wounded who would receive proper attention, if the governor sent the necessary transports. After appropriating everything they could find the insurgents left the place This affair is briefly mentioned in the Diario, which ascribes the disaster to the carelessness of the garrison, or the connivance of the inhabitants with the insurgents. Commenting on the event it says it shall be forgotten Unfavorable as well as favorable news, as experience has shown that keeping back the former produces lamentable consequences.

The garrison under command of Commandant Poulch was besieged for a period of forty days, until starvation did its work among the garrison and inhabitants. Meanwhile all provision trains from Manzanillo which approached the besieged city were captured by the Cuban forces and no communication whatever was allowed the said town with the outer world. The insurgents captured 1,600 Remington rifles, all in excellent condition, 14 cannon and field pieces, including a cannon that was sent out from this country on Perit's expedition, many thousand cartridges, provisions, clothing, medicines, money, etc The garrison consisted of 440 soldiers of the regular army and 60 volunteers, many of whom were wounded during the siege In the past year 3,000 Spanish soldiers have deserted and joined the patriots

The Wheat Market.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—Reported sales of wheat to shipper yesterday at $1 65 have caused considerable speculation among interested parties in connection with increased firmness in the general market. It is stated that the same lot bought at that figure might have been obtained as low as $1 62½, and one theory is that the purchaser's action was prompted by a desire to bull the market in order to get rid of stock on hand. Circumstances, however, hardly warrant that view of the case, and the more general opinion seems to be that the transaction was made in expectation of higher rates prevailing this morning. The market is very strong, and one cargo is known to have been sold at prices materially in advance of $1 62½. The question now beginning to be asked whether in case of prices reaching and holding steady at $1 65 grangers who, by concerted action have been holding out for that rate, will be satisfied to sell or hold on for a still further rise.

Smallpox.

Only one case of smallpox reported this morning and seven yesterday. No deaths yesterday or to day.

Dishonest Clerk.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—The steamer Newbern, which sailed Saturday for Mexico, carried with her a young man named Alfred Vermilye, who having betrayed confidence reposed in him by his employer was fleeing from the country. Alfred Vermilye is a son of the Rev. John Vermilye, a respected retired pastor of the Episcopal church, and resident of this city for over 10 years. The young man has been employed by Powell & Co., commission merchants, as clerk, and commanded their entire confidence. Friday last was semi-monthly collection day and as was his custom, Vermilye went his regular semi-monthly rounds. He collected altogether about $24,000, so far as the firm has been able to make it out. All of this money he is known to have carried off with him. Vermilye, it now appears, has not been leading a life of rectitude for sometime past. About 18 months ago he made the acquaintance of a low woman named Gussie Mott, and has been living with her ever since. It is also discovered that he was a frequenter of the gambling den of Billy Briggs, and a member of a club known as the "California," which bears a reputation scarcely any better. Gussie Mott is a passenger on the same steamer under the name of Mrs. Harris.

Suicide.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 6.—About four o'clock this afternoon Rudolph Berch committed suicide in a water closet in the yard of his residence, No. 13 Oak street, by shooting himself through the head. The deceased, until recently, held the position of bookkeeper in the importing house of McCain & McClure, California street, but for some months has been idle with consumption. He exhausted his means and was reduced to despair. He was a German, aged 46 years, and leaves a wife and family.

The Grangers' Feast of Pomona.

Grangers this evening celebrated the Feast of Pomona in grand style. The display on fruit on the tables was said to be the finest ever seen in California. The Grange is reported to have taken some decided action on the question of wheat and freights, but decline to make known at present the nature of their conclusions on the score of policy and interest.

A slight shock of earthquake was felt at 9:20 this evening. The vibrations were from north to south.

Trotting at San Jose.

SAN JOSE, Oct. 5.—A lively concourse of people assembled on the Fair grounds to witness the contest for the 2:26 purse of $350. The starters were Geo. Trhat, Lon. Whipple, Gold Note, Gov. Stanford, Drigo and Jerome Trent was the favorite with pool buyers, bringing as much as all others. The afternoon was beautiful and the track was in fine order. Treat won handily in 3 straight heats, the first two being made in 2:32½ and 2:27¼ respectively. Time of last heat not given.

Probable Assassination.

YREKA, Oct. 6.—A young man name John Gordon was shot and killed early this morning in his cabin near Lafayette mill, Scott's valley. Two young men, who are suspected, have left here, crossing the ridge toward Klamath river, evidently intending to go into Oregon via Siskiyou mountains. The cause of the shooting is supposed to be in revenge of an old grudge and it is supposed Gordon was assassinated.

Found Dead.

A man named George Babbles was found dead in a shanty on the corner of Douglas and Herald streets, Wednesday evening. A post mortem examination shows he died of heart disease. He came to this place in 1858 from Guaymas, Mexico, and was about 60 years of age.

Fire.

A fire yesterday morning destroyed six shanties off Fisgard and Government streets, which had been occupied by Indians, some of whom died of smallpox, since which time they have been unoccupied. The Pacific Telegraph Hotel was in danger at one time from the fire, but was saved.

H. M. S. Amethyst arrived from San Francisco Thursday afternoon.

THE STATE FAIR.

More extensive preparations are being made for the coming State Fair than of any former year A great many more camping lodges are being constructed, extra stabling prepared, and facilities for carrying passengers to and fro between the city and the grounds are matured The train of the O. & C. R. R. will stop at the fair grounds. Water in abundance and of good quality, will be procured from Mill creek, by way of the penitentiary race, from which place it is forced into two immense tanks elevated on platforms at the south side of the race track and thence conveyed by pipes across the track, whence it is distributed to all the principal points. In addition a number of wells have been sunk in the grove on the east of the track and pumps placed therein The officers have spared no labor or expense to in every way promote the comfort of visitors. The race track has been placed in fine condition and will be kept so in spite of "wind or weather." There are now some 50 or 80 animals in training for the liberal purses offered by the society, and more are on the way. At no time in the history of the State has so fine a display of horseflesh been made on the track as is already exhibited. As the speed and draft programmes promise, as usual, to furnish the principal interest, I have taken the trouble to personally inspect the stables and obtain the particulars as far as possible concerning each. A "word-photograph" of the various animals will meet with favor from all quarters, in assisting identification as they come upon the track. I will finish the list as fast as they may be entered. The first stable visited was that of Hon J. C. Tolman, of Jackson county, which contains

SATURDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 7 1876

WHO ARE THE FRIENDS OF NATURALIZED CITIZENS?

Of all the shams in politics, there is none more unmitigatedly false than the claim of the Democratic party to have been always the friend of the naturalized citizen. It is true that the emissaries of that party are generally found helping wherever fraudulent naturalization is going on, and that immigrants are often hoodwinked into the belief that their best friends are the Democrats by the great interest Democratic politicians manifest in their welfare just about election day; but are they the real friends of the naturalized citizen? A brief examination of the history of naturalization will show conclusively that they are not. In the first Congress of the United States, the Democrats were in the minority. The statute then passed regulating naturalization permitted aliens to become citizens after a residence of two years. Five years later the Democrats were in power, and they passed a law requiring five years' residence instead of two, with a preliminary declaration of intention which had to be made three years before the papers conferring citizenship could be granted. The fact of residence, under this statute, could be proved by the testimony of the immigrant himself. In 1802, the same party being in power, a new law was enacted making the same regulations as to time, etc., but requiring other evidence than the applicant's own oath to prove residence. The next law on the subject was passed by the anti-Democratic Congress which elected John Quincy Adams President; the only change being the reduction of the period between the declaration of intention, and the granting of final papers, to two years. Thus the law stood till 1802, when a Republican Congress again modified the law so as to permit aliens who had served in the army and been honorably discharged to become citizens without any preliminary declaration of intention, and without reference to the length of time of residence. Thus it will appear that every change in the law from the foundation of the government down, which has been against the immigrant has been made by the Democracy, and every change in his favor has been made by the party that was opposed to the Democracy.

In another, and still more important respect, the comparison will present a still stronger case against this Democratic claim. Early in the history of the government questions arose as to the rights of naturalized citizens who revisited the land of their nativity. When naturalized citizens returned to Europe, especially those who had immigrated to this country [illegible] the United States, they were required to do military duty, and in all [illegible] treated as if their naturalization in the United States were an idle ceremony. Appeals to our government for protection in such cases were uniformly answered by the Democratic authorities with the statement that since European governments did not recognize the right of expatriation, our government would not insist upon that right in favor of any citizen who did find it necessary or convenient to revisit the home of his childhood. The American flag was a protection to our foreign born citizen so long as he remained in America, where no protection was needed, but the moment he set foot on his native soil he lost his rights as an American citizen. Cases of this kind occurred in the administration of Van Buren, Pierce and Buchanan, and the same course was pursued, the foreign born citizen being in each case denied the right of protection. And yet no effort was made to get foreign governments to recognize the right of expatriation. If the view they took of the subject was correct upon general principles of international law, it would seem they should have interested themselves to secure immunity for our naturalized citizens, by treaty stipulations. But they did nothing of the kind. Nearly two hundred treaties were made under Democratic auspices, between our government and foreign nations, and in all of them this important interest of our [illegible] was ignored. But no sooner did the Republicans come into power than [illegible] representatives abroad began to [illegible] treaty provisions for [illegible] and [illegible] stipulations have been inserted in our treaties with all the principal nations of the earth to the effect that when naturalized citizens of the United States return to visit their native land or temporarily to sojourn there for lawful purposes, they shall be entitled to all the rights and privileges of native-born citizens of this country. Thus under Republican administration the flag of the Republic is made, for the first time, a shield to adopted as well as native citizens, whithersoever they may choose to go. Citizenship has thus become to them what it never was under Democratic rule, a right to call upon the nation of their adoption for protection against oppression of every sort and in every land.

"REGULAR" NOMINATIONS.

The necessity of party organization is quite as evident to us as to anybody. But the necessity of disregarding "regularity," when it disgraces and endangers the party itself and could committed to it, is no less evident. The argument for supporting "regular" nominations under all circumstances becomes an argument for sustaining the man who, by the very means he uses to secure the nomination, proves that he is unfit for it.

We are asked whether Republicans should not leave the enemy to point out their weaknesses. We answer that no one seems to us to be so vitally interested in the safety of the ship as those who are embarked in it. It is their business to scan every seam and rope and expose the least leak or break. Is it wiser for a company of decent men to put out the pickpockets that may be found among them, or to conceal them, and let the enemy pick out the thieves as specimens of the whole company? Those who sincerely believe the Republican organization to be, upon the whole, the most trustworthy, believe it because they think it embraces the truest patriotism and intelligence of the country. Back that patriotism and intelligence suffer themselves to be represented by schemers and demagogues, and men whose political character and influence are questionable or worse, how is the country helped? Of what use is the honesty of the principal, if the agent whom he appoints and sustains is dishonest? These are general considerations, but the necessity of this national canvass if to show that the Republican party will deal more effectively with the issues of the time than the Democracy. But if an honest currency be an issue, how can the Republicans prove their purpose by nominating an inflationist? If economy be an issue, how can they prove it by nominating a salary-grabber? If a wise and generous Southern policy be an issue, how can they prove it by nominating a man whose sole specific is the bayonet? And of what use is the assertion that the party has done great deeds and will continue to do them, if it honors and prefers men whose career has already inspired profound distrust and helped to defeat the party?

The above is from one of George William Curtis' sensible and vigorous editorials in Harper's Weekly, and it presents the subject of casting out evil spirits from political parties in its true light. It is far better for a party to seek out and correct the wrongs that creep into it than to attempt to conceal them and at last have them dragged into the light by its enemies. Mr. Curtis himself has done incalculable service to the Republican party by exposing its errors and sparing none of its leaders whenever their conduct called for criticism. To those papers and those men who have shrunk not from the duty of criticism, prominent among whom stands Mr. Curtis, the Republican party today owes its existence; for if it had been permitted to go on without admonition or rebuke in the direction its self-appointed leaders marked out for it a year or two ago, it would not to-day have sufficient standing to claim public attention, much less public confidence. It is not the friends of the organization, but its enemies, that owe a grudge to those who have exposed the danger of its practices and insisted upon making it deserve further successes.

A Democrat of Siuslaw feels keenly the disgrace of having for chairman of the committee on enrolled bills, in a Democratic Legislature, a man who can "neither read nor write the English language." That is rather unfortunate, but it is liable to occur again at any time, as the Democratic party is constituted, and we see no safe course for our educated friend, if he would avoid such mortification in the future but to sever his connection from the fossil party.

The following dispatch was published in the Evening Standard of yesterday:

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 5, 1876.

TO GOV. L. F. GROVER—A telegram, just received from the National Committee, says the Democratic Governor, State, County and Legislative tickets are elected in Colorado.

Leverrier requests all persons having telescopes to observe the disc of the sun on the 9th and 10th inst. and, if any spots should be noticed on it, to make special report to the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor. It is to be hoped that the request will be complied with, and that the familiar luminary may present a visage as full of dark spots as is Mr. Tilden's record.

RUPTURE!

No More Metallic Trusses Used!

No More Suffering from Iron Hoops or Steel Springs!

THE SUPERIORITY OF OUR ELASTIC Truss over the rigid Iron Hoops, which in former days were the only resource of the ruptured admits of NO ARGUMENT

By means of this appliance the pressure on the Rupture itself can be made uniform and continuous, and to the exact degree in each case, until a slight inflammation of the parts is secured, and the consequent adhesion of rupture which is essential to a healing process and from this time to the conclusion of the treatment the pressure, being entirely within the control of the patient, can be lessened daily as the adhesion progresses and the body becomes sound. All cases of Inguinal Hernia are permanently relieved without regard to the age of the patient or the duration of the injury, while in its action it is wholly free from all the cruelty that has characterized the treatment of the malady with tortuous Metal Trusses from the earliest age to the present day. Your attention is called to the following facts:

1st—There are no springs to press upon or to injure the back.

2d—It is simple in construction, and not liable to get out of order.

3d—This instrument is worn with perfect ease while riding horseback.

4th—The Rupture is retained and the pressure the same while in any position.

5th—It has none of the injurious results of metallic Trusses.

6th—It will perform radical cures when all others fail.

7th—It is worn with ease and comfort night and day, which cannot be said truthfully of an metal Truss whatever.

Experience shows that all tempered spring Trusses necessarily press upon and often diseases parts of the body that before were in a perfectly healthy condition. Lumbago and other equally distressing ailments are not unfrequently the outgrowth of such pressure and in view of this fact it becomes a matter of decided consequence to avoid like calamities, if possible.

Examination Free. The closest scrutiny of physicians solicited.

Beware of Bogus articles called Elastic Trusses. Dr. ROWE, Inventor and Patentee of Elastic Trusses. All parties infringing either by sale or manufacture, will be dealt with in such manner as the law provides.

Bishop Hills was invited to speak to the convention on the work of his clergy among the Indians He gave some very interesting facts regarding not only the Indians in his own diocese but in the Greenland Diocese of Alaska The mission at Metlakahtla he said was perhaps the best work of the most successful mission on the continent The Bishop was listened to with great attention The convention here adjourned until 2 P M

Afternoon Session.

On assembling at 2 P M the following resolutions were offered by Rev Mr Bennett

Resolved That this Convocation records upon its minutes the great satisfaction with which it has welcomed the Right Reverend Dr Hills Bishop of Columbia

Resolved That by the presence of this Apostle of the Mother Church of England so long a blessing and an ornament to British America this Convocation is encouraged and strengthened in laboring upon its newer but no less important field

Resolved That this Convocation hails the visit of the Bishop of Columbia as a harbinger of more frequent intercourse and of a closer fellowship between British and American Churchmen and as a dawning beam of that longed for day in which all branches of the one holy Catholic and Apostolic Church shall stand fast in one spirit and with one heart strive together for the faith of the Gospel

These resolutions were seconded by Rev Dr Nevius in a brief speech and the Bishop of Columbia replied thanking the Convention for their kind reception

The committee on the Oregon Churchman then made their report—a report which provoked considerable comment The gist of the report was to the effect that the paper did not pay expenses

On motion a committee was appointed to report such plan as they should think best for supplying this jurisdiction with Sunday school requisites

ENTERPRISE.

The telegraph informed us a few days since that the Oregon City Woolen Manufacturing Co have been awarded medals for the samples of blankets and cassimeres exhibited by them at the Centennial

Having learned that new machinery of the last and most improved designs—surpassed by none now in use in the United States—had lately been placed in the mill and being desirous of seeing some of the superior goods now being manufactured we yesterday paid a visit to the salesrooms of the agents,

MESSRS JACOBS BROS & CO,

Nos and 5 North Front street. We found their spacious three story building crowded to repletion with a variety of goods The first floor is devoted to suits clothing of which they have a complete assortment comprising all styles and all grades either for the former mechanic or the gents On the second floor they have a full stock of boys and youths clothing staple dry goods hats etc On the third floor we were almost breathless in the midst of bales of Oregon blankets cassimeres flannels yarns etc

The principal of the Oregon City woolen mills display there are to county credit to the Company and we doubt not that similar goods on exhibition at Philadelphia have created as much wonder and attracted as much admiration to Oregon as our wonderful exhibits of grain fruit wool etc In connection with the agency of the Oregon City Woolen mills Messrs Jacobs Bros & Co started in years since engaged in the manufacture of Eastern clothing for the

WHOLESALE TRADE

The superior quality of the goods imported by them and their careful attention to the wants of the trade soon brought to their doors a host of customers

They have constantly kept pace with the increasing demands of the market, until now their stock is equal to any in the same line on the Pacific coast, and we may safely say in this connection that they have drawn to Portland a large amount of trade which formerly passed to San Francisco.

As public journalists and as citizens interested in the welfare of Oregon it is our aim to commend and lend encouragement to all enterprises which tend to benefit the community at large, and we desire to call special attention to the lately inaugurated by Messrs Jacob Bros & Co which from present indications promises soon to be of immense magnitude—we refer to the manufacture of mens and boys clothing of all grades from cloths manufactured at Oregon City The reputation of the Oregon City Mills is established and their goods are eagerly sought after all over the coast In San Francisco where they come in direct competition with California and Eastern manufactures their sales are enormous.

The Oregon clothing manufactured by Messrs J B & Co is 'bobby,' indeed The make up of the suits etc is equal to any imported and the finish style and durability of the goods cannot be gainsayed

This is an enterprise which concerns all

ECONOMY IS THE DUTY OF THE HOUR,

And in no way can it be better practised than in the purchase of these home made goods for the consumer gets a better article than is usually imported and the prices are way down

We have no doubt but this new enterprise of Messrs J B & Co will soon revolutionize the clothing trade of this State and to a great extent of California Already the demand is great and we would advise our country as well as city dealers to give their attention to this matter It will be of material advantage to the farmer the laborer and the mechanic The increasing demand upon the capacity of the mills will soon require more machinery and more help and the consumption of wool will be correspondingly greater

Messrs Jacobs Bros & Co will have on exhibition at the State Fair samples of Oregon clothing, to which they invite the close attention of dealers as well as consumers, and we feel satisfied that every one will be pleased to note that Oregon is still progressing and marching on

CYRUS NOBLE DISTILLERY, 1st Dist. O.

CINCINNATI April 1 1876

Messrs LILIENTHAL & CO

Gentlemen—I have just returned from a trip through Kentucky Ohio and West Virginia, undertaken for the purpose of examining the various distilleries in those districts, and I am now more than ever confirmed in the opinion, so often expressed to you that your distillery is the most complete, and best conducted of any in the United States

The careful selection of your grain, the purity of the water the slower and more cautious method of distillation, is what gives the NOBLE WHISKY its superior qualities, and has gained for it the reputation which it universally sustains throughout the United States

Gratified that the 20 years devoted to the distillation of the CYRUS NOBLE WHISKY, has been attended with such happy results, I trust I may be spared to continue my labors in its interest, and that of its many patrons and consumers

I am, Gentlemen,
Yours faithfully,
CYRUS NOBLE.

TO THE PUBLIC.—The great reputation which our Cyrus Noble Whisky has enjoyed in medical practice throughout the Eastern States and Europe for a period of nearly 25 years, prompts us to bring it to the notice of the Public of the Pacific Coast for similar use.

Its absolute purity, having by analysis been found to be entirely free from FUSEL OIL, and the improved quality imparted to it by its being retained in store for at least 5 to 6 years after distillation, has given to the Physician a remedy long sought for in his own Materia Medica.

The certificates we hold of its efficacy in the treatment of many NERVOUS PROSTRATION exists and vitality is at a low ebb, as is frequently [illegible] in Malarial districts or DYSPEPSIA, with its whole train of [illegible] troubles, of the LIVER and the BOWELS of CONSUMPTION affording effective and ready relief to the afflicted victim, and of [illegible] blood poisoning, [illegible] in this case as a disinfectant the sufferer from [illegible] death are all highly gratifying to us, and we believe we owe it to our numerous patrons on the coast to use every endeavor to insure for it here

FLOWER MEMORIES

South casting, strow the crocus springs
I follow and I make the fruitwood
And rice it hast of brighter things

Ah wood on which it seemeth me
Thou bringst a subtle odor near

Since a while blossom hath the leaves
And presences of feet not nigh
The wood awesome perceives

The lonely weary wand rers stay
In shadow of a broken wall
To pluck a rosebud by the way
For natures wealth is free to all

Ah sweet wild rose what mem ries come
To dwell with us in fragrant June
They touch our hearts with care grown dim
And put old melodies in tune.

A cory that is all pe er grow old
That a love I from hoval up to throne

Through all the swiftly fleeing years
As each one brings its blossom time

The lower voices lift their chime

H

A FRIEND IN NEED

They used to make fun of him at the office He was a queer old fellow, with a solemn face and, what we thought ridiculously polite ways He would take off his hat when he came in, and rev

"Good morning, gentlemen I trust I see you all in good health this fine day

And some of the boys would nod—and some wouldn t do anything but I never could help standing up and bowing, perhaps because I knew that my mother would have said that I ought to do it.

To be sure, he was only on a salary like ourselves but had been at R—— & B 's twenty five years, and young fellows had come and gone and there he was

And, you see, if was gentlemanly of him, I said, and if he was a little creature, with a queer little wig, why he looked something like a gentleman, too. I said so once to Merrivale next f o sunshine; but—well—I didn't try it again

You see Merrivale was up to everything, dressed elegantly, sneered at everything almost, and I d come from a country town and he was a city man)

Nobody down on "Old Dumps as he was, especially after he made us that speech about our conduct to the ladies.

Dumps made the speech, you know, and it was Merrivale who had said the lady only came in to look at him.

I was fearfully wanted to know the way to the street she asked for; and how she colored and hurried out!

And Dumps with his brown wig, looked to me like the gentleman that day and Merrivale with his fine curling hair and black mustache and broad shoulders, like a puppy

"The man who calls a blush to the cheek of a good woman by look or tone must have forgotten his mother," said Old Dumps. "When that lady asked you a civil question she relied on her belief that you were a gentleman, Mr Merrivale" When you answered her as you did, and spoke of her as you did, any one could read your insulting thoughts Mr Merrivale; and you did not even rise from your seat, sir. You proved that she was very much mistaken."

"Mean to say I am no gentleman?" said Merrivale.

"In this instance, sir," said Old Dumps, you certainly have not conducted yourself as one should."

He, he, he pulled his wig half off, and pulled it on again.

"Ef we said he, "he knows he's safe. There'd be no fun in knocking down an old bag of bones like that. I could do it with my little finger. But you attend to your own biz 'n s will you, Old Dumps? I can behave myself without your advice, and that ain't the first woman that's come in just for a sort of flirtation. I'm used to that sort of thing I am."

"Mr. Dumps is right this time," said I.

"Bah!" said Merrivale. 'You're from the country."

"Thank Heaven for it, then, my young friend!" said Dumps, and sat down

After that Merriv'e was never even half way civil to Dumps, and the boys followed Merrivale's lead But I liked the old fellow When we mustin the— r I'd take off my hat and shake hands, and say some of those polite things that mother used to teach me to say And I wrote of him to mother, and she said she was glad that her boy knew what was due to a good old gentleman But after all, in the office, you know what the boys thought and said had its influence.

Who were the boys? Why, there was Merrivale, with his darling airs, and his way of letting you know he was a favorite with the women

And Carberry who didn t care about style, and knew the city

And Stover, who used to come with red eyes and head aches and boast that he'd been making a night of it

I was lonely enough in the great city and I should have liked to join company with Dumps and walk home with him from church sometimes but I was afraid of meeting one of the boys, and I never did But I would bow to him and we took our hats off to each other always.

Sometimes, when I lived at Haredale with mother, I've seen the sky beautiful and bright and blue all hour, and the next black with the clouds of a thunder storm Just that way any trouble came to me an awful trouble—such as I could not have dreamt of

I had written to my mother that I was doing well and liked my business and would go down to see her on Sunday, when I was sent for to go into the inner office and there —I can't go through with it—I can't even remember details; but I was charged with being a thief.

You'd have to understand our particular business, as well as book-keeping to know how I was supposed to have done it but they believed I had robbed them of £100.

They urged me to confess. I was innocent and I said so. Then they told me they did not wish to be hard on me, I was young The city was a bad place for boys They would be merciful, and only dismiss me without recommendation! All I could say had no effect They proved me guilty before they accused me, they said; and at last I staggered out into the office The boys were getting ready to go home. I saw they knew what had happened

'None of you believed this of me ' said I

"None of you who know me"

And Merrivale said

'Look here Forrester you re very lucky to get off so?'

And Carberry said

"Now come, we know too much to be fooled It s always your sly boots of a good young man that does these sort of things

And Grab said

I say, Forrester don t talk too much you ll give yourself away

And Stover said

Oh, go take a glass of brandy and water and don t go on like a girl about it

And, what with shame, and rage and grief, I could have died when out of his dusty corner came little Old Dumps in his little snuff-colored overcoat, and held out his hand

Mr Forrester,' he said I've watched you ever since you've been here I know what you are. You are incapable of a dishonest act and what I more, I will prove it before I rest The man who respects others always respects himself The man who honors his mother will do no dishonorable thing

He took my hand in his arm and bowing to the others walked out into the street with me I heard Grab and Stover and Carberry laugh but Merrivale gave us a furious look and stood white to the lips looking after us

"Mr Dumps, said I thank you for your confidence in me I deserve it—in this at least but it saves my heart from breaking under this disgrace. How shall I tell my mother?'

Don't tell her yet" said he Wait Others shall think of you as I do soon

Then we went on in silence He took me to his own room, where he kept bachelor s hall He made tea for me and served me with sliced potted beef and thin bread and butter

The room was a strange, old fashioned place, enough like a room in a story—and there was a miniature of a young lady in the costume of forty years before on the wall over the mantle, and of book shelves, old, calf bound volumes—Fielding s Amelia, Thaddeus of Warsaw, Evelina—I can t tell you all of them and on a stand near the fire the prayer book with the book mark hanging from it.

It was not until we had done tea that he said to me very apologetically after I had called him Mr Dumps

Mr Forrester excuse but I am not named Dumps That is the name by which the young men at the store condescend to call me Between ourselves I think they will call it rather hard when I tell them that I saw by your manner that you had made a mistake My name is Adams

I was so much astonished at having used the nickname unconsciously as I had at that I could have cried

But my old friend comforted me I think that but for his saying why that night I should have taken my own life I did not believe he could help me even then

I told him I said I could not tell you just what they accused me of done, unless you knew the usual routine of our business And I must tell you it with all for the same reason But one day he came in flushed with triumph and took both my hands and shook them hard and said

My dear boy it s all right I ll prove it before and I had a clue Your character is clear I The firm welcome you back with regrets that they should have suspected you and the real culprits found The real culprits Merrivale and Stover is his accomplice

And so it really was They had doctored my books and meddled with my goods They made me out a thief as plainly as though I had been one and they never once guessed that Old Dumps with his suspicions aroused had placed detectives and was all the time ready to my rescue in the hour of need

I went back to my station and I've got on well ever since but there s one of my story Think of my dear Old Dumps turning out to be my uncle—my mother s own brother—and neither of us guessing it

Long ago other people had quarreled and so separated these two, who were always friends

Think of the little man in the shabby wig and coat proving to be quite rich, and going down into the country to live with his sister for the rest of his life

In vacations and holidays I go to see them They are happy together, and the little tea table is set with the old china and there is potted beef and jelly, and I m petted like a child And in my uncle s room the old miniature of the young lady hangs on the mantle piece as it did in his lodgings

And once he told me its sweet sad story and I knew why the quaint old man in the office had a more true and tender gallantry to women, and was a braver friend and more perfect gentleman than the young fops who grinned at him from the high stools between his desk and the window and gave him the nickname of Old Dumps.

Liverpool Grain Market.

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 6—The leading grain circular says wheat trade has continued animated during the week and many markets are a shilling per quarter better both in agricultural districts and in the chief grain ports A similar advance has been obtained for cargoes off the coast and for shipment while on the spot and in the neighborhood business has been active at an improvement of 6 a 9 pence per 480 lbs. The stock of wheat is diminishing and red American grades have become quite scarce in the market. To-day an advance was asked which rather checks the demands still a fair business is reported in wheat at an improvement in most cases of two pence on last quotations Flour sells steadily at rather over Tuesday s rate Corn dull
